Safety Trained Supervisor (STS) – Prep Course (Certification for Construction)

The STS certification program is run by the Council on Certification of Health, Environmental and Safety Technologists (CCHEST www.cchest.org). The STS certification program is intended for individuals who: are managers at any level, first time supervisors of work groups or organization units, have a safety responsibility for a work group that is part of other work duties. STS are not safety specialists or safety practitioners. Typical candidates have a safety responsibility that is collateral or an aspect of their job duties. The main job duties are in a craft or trade, in leadership, supervision or management or in a technical specialty.

The typical STS helps an employer implement safety programs at the worker level through supervisory, safety committee or similar safety and health leadership roles (safety responsibility is a part-time responsibility). Safety tasks often include monitoring for job hazards, helping ensure regulatory compliance, training employees in safety practices, performing safety recordkeeping tasks, coordinating corrections for safety problems with or among work groups and communicating with safety specialists or management.

The STS is a professional certification which shows the holder has met a minimum competency in general safety practices. Some benefits include having a certification of competency via a third party administered test; meeting the governments construction unified guide specification which requires STS certified supervision for the Site Safety and Health Officer position or collateral duty safety position.

To gain eligibility for a STS examination, you must be of good moral character and meet the following three requirements:

- 1) Have 2 years of experience in construction;
- 2) Have 1 year of experience as a supervisor or safety leader of a work group. (This can be concurrent with #1);
- 3) Have completed 30 hours of formal safety training through a single course or multiple courses.

This prep-course will help students apply for and prepare to take the 75 question, multiple-choice computer examination required to qualify for the STS certification. Course topics will include the application process, test taking strategies and an understanding of basic safety concepts which may be covered the 13 safety task categories in the examination.

Certificate of attendance will be issued after course completion.
